

DRAGON EXPRESS

Let's Explore Chinese
Language & Culture!

SOMETHING'S MISSING...

Look carefully at the characters in each column. The top character is correct, but there's a stroke missing from the bottom character. Can you see which stroke is missing? Draw in the missing stroke.

聪

春

爱

冷

聪

春

爱

冷

DID YOU KNOW? Fortune cookies are not Chinese. In fact, they are an American invention! These tasty little cookies with a slip of paper inside were probably invented by a Japanese American named Makoto Hagiwara. In 1914, he began serving cookies with thank-you notes inside at his Japanese Tea Garden in San Francisco.

Want to Learn More About China?

Check out Dragon Express activity kits at RicePaperKite.com!

- Mandarin Language CDs
- Chinese Folktales
- Holiday Activities
- Arts and Crafts
- History Projects
- Cultural Games
- Chinese Songs
- Character Writing
- Fun and Learning