

About this Card:

The Chinese phrase on the front

年年有余

(say “nián nián yǒu yú”)

means to have more than enough every year. This is a common wish for Chinese New Year.

Why the picture of a fish? The last character of the phrase, which means “abundance,” sounds the same as the word for fish, so pictures of fish are often used to represent abundance.

Learn more about Chinese culture at
www.RicePaperKite.com

© 2013 RICE PAPER KITE

年年有余

About this Card:

The symbol on the front combines the four characters in the phrase

招财进宝

(say “zhāo cái jìn bǎo”)

This is a common phrase on New Year’s greetings as it means “let fortune and treasures come into the house.”

Can you find each of the four characters hidden in the symbol on the front?

Learn more about Chinese culture at
www.RicePaperKite.com

© 2013 RICE PAPER KITE

